WELCOME TO ADELAIDE

CONVENOR INVITATION

On behalf of the 2011 AGOSCI conference committee, I extend a warm invitation to everyone who is committed to representing people with complex communication needs (CCN), and those who are keen to learn more about this field, to attend the AGOSCI 10th Biennial Conference, at the Adelaide Convention Centre, from 11 – 14 May 2011.

The conference theme – Taking it to the Streets - is designed to encourage innovation and action whilst increasing understanding and awareness of persons with CCN and their use of augmentative and alternative communication (AAC). We encourage regular delegates of the AGOSCI Conference to promote the Conference to others, and encourage attendance from those outside of the sector whose contributions and enlightenment will expand the scope of our field as well as increasing awareness to the wider community.

The social program for 2011 will be sure to entertain all guests. There will be a Welcome Reception including AGOSCI's 30th Birthday celebration on Wednesday 11 May and the Conference Dinner on Friday 13 May 2011.

As one of the world's most diverse and welcoming cities, Adelaide, South Australia can offer delegates a unique mix of world famous wines, culinary genius, picturesque boulevards, splendid lifestyle, convenient accessibility and vast business experience.

The conference committee is a team of motivated, innovative and passionate people who are determined to offer one of the most inspiring, thought provoking and fun AGOSCI Conferences yet.

We look forward to welcoming you to Adelaide in 2011!

PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS

HALF DAY WORKSHOPS 1 & 2

Date: Wednesday 11 May 2011

Guest Speaker: Barbara Collier

Topic: Promoting Self-Directed Services and Community Inclusion for People who use AAC

Morning Session Focus: (3 hours)

Directing Personal Assistant Services at Home

For people who have physical disabilities in addition to communication disabilities, the provision of personal assistant services (PAS) plays a critical role in their living experience. The role of a PAS is to assist with tasks that the person would do independently if he or she did not have a disability. Individuals who use AAC may require assistance in a variety of activities such as meal preparation, eating, drinking, and personal hygiene. They may require these services in a variety of locations including home, workplace, academic, medical and social settings. Managing and directing one's PAS is pivotal for quality of life, personal freedom, expression and increased community inclusiveness.

This workshop will focus on supporting youth and adults who use AAC to communicate effectively with PAS. We will explore what people need to communicate about, the vocabulary, tools, and strategies they require to manage their PAS as well as the trainings to support them in developing interpersonal skills in assertiveness and conflict resolution.

Afternoon Session Focus: (3 hours)

Directing Communication Assistants in the Community

Participants will learn about the communication supports required by people who use augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) when accessing their communities and the role that a communication assistant can play in supporting them to communicate effectively with people in their communities. Information will be shared about a pilot project communication assistant service project and will include defining the role of a communication assistant; the curriculum developed to train the assistants; the content and format used to support people who use AAC to direct a communication assistant and the start up of a communication assistant service model. Outcomes from the project will be shared along with recommendations for future directions for communication assistant services

Workshop Fee: $75.00 per session or $125 for both

Time: Morning Session: 9.00am – 12.30pm

Afternoon Session: 1.30pm – 4.30pm

Venue: Education Development Centre

(please see the registration desk at the venue for room information)

FULL DAY WORKSHOP 3

Date: Wednesday 11 May 2011
 Guest Speakers: Associate Professor Robyn Young & Dr Julie McMillan

Topic:
Communication and Behaviour of Children with Autism: Recognition and Intervention in Education

Current research suggests that signs of autism are present in many children as early as 12 months. These behaviours and how they may be operationalised will be discussed. It is sensible to argue that these early deficits (e.g. joint attention, social orienting) contribute to the poor social and communicative development experienced by persons with autism and are thus a target for intervention to minimise the effect that any delay in their acquisition may cause in other areas of development. Participants will be introduced to teaching techniques based on learning theory to demonstrate how these behaviours can be effectively targeted in intervention

Tools will be provided to assist in recognising early communicative behaviours and the impact of these skills on subsequent development. The presented strategies will demonstrate how teachers, carers and parents can systematically increase the number of communication and teaching opportunities in their settings for children with autism who would benefit from the use of AAC. Participants will view video clips of teachers implementing applied techniques with learners. These strategies can be implemented by teachers, parents, and carers and are recommended for children with autism whose communication is thought to be below or up to the 24-month level.

Workshop Fee: $125.00 for full day
 Time: 9.00am – 4.00pm
 Venue: Education Development Centre

(please see the registration desk at the venue for room information)

HALF DAY WORKSHOP 4

Date: Wednesday 11 May 2011
 Guest Speakers: Darryl Sellwood

Topic:
Finding telecommunications solutions for people who rely on augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) technologies

AAC users understand firsthand that access to telecommunications has become essential for genuine participation in 21st century society. This fun, interactive workshop is aimed at AAC users and those who support them and will introduce current and emerging developments in the accessible telecommunications field including mobile phones, SMS, social networks, Skype and instant messaging. The session will provide practical demonstrations and explanations on how best to find and implement individual solutions.

We will demonstrate examples of solutions that could enable someone with a physical disability to independently use a home or mobile phone. Opportunity for hands-on experience exploring some of these tools will also be provided.

Workshop Fee: $75.00 for afternoon session
 Time: 1.30pm – 4.30pm
 Venue: Education Development Centre

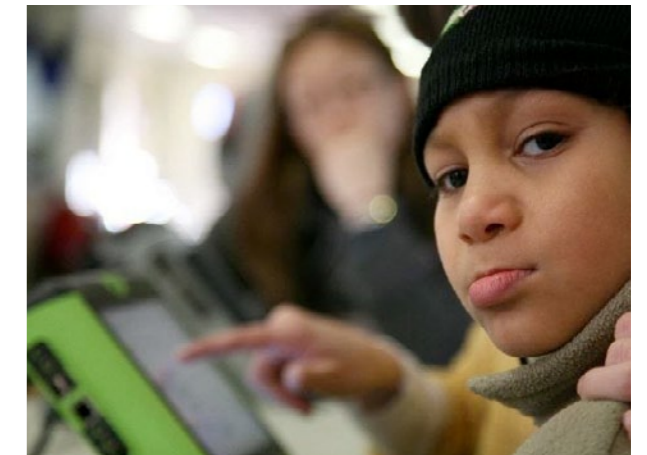

(please see the registration desk at the venue for room information)

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Rhonda Galbally AO

RHONDA GALBALLY AO

Rhonda Galbally AO has focussed her life's work on making a difference for a more equitable society.

Rhonda has been a CEO for twenty three years in business, public sector, philanthropy and community, including the Myer foundation and Sidney Myer Fund, the Australian Commission for the Future, the Australian International Health Institute at the University of Melbourne (now the Nossal institute and VicHealth) - the world's first organisation to use a dedicated tobacco tax for health promotion. Her contribution to public health in over ten years developing and sustaining VicHealth as one of the most important international strategies in tobacco control was recognised by the award of the World Health Organisation Award for Tobacco and Health in 1996. From 2000-2009 Rhonda's passionate support for community culminated in her role as Founding CEO of www.ourcommunity.com.au

Rhonda is currently Chair of the Victorian Disability Advisory Council, Chair of the National People with Disability and Carers Council, member of the independent Panel advising the Productivity Commission on the need for a long term care and support scheme for people with disabilities, Chair of the Royal Women's Hospital, Chair of the International Board of Evaluation for the Thai Health Promotion Foundation and Patron of Compassionate Friends.

Keynote Session Title:

Into the Streets: People with Disabilities Fully Participating in Australian Society

Synopsis:

How will we know when we get there? Rhonda will outline what constitutes the full inclusion of people with disabilities in Australian society. She will analyse where we are to date in the decades long struggle for full participation- what has worked and what still needs to be done. She will discuss the current reform agendas, strategies, campaigns and alliances -their progress to date and challenges still to be met. Rhonda will make suggestions for how delegates and their networks can participate to ensure that persons with complex communication needs are maximizing their contribution as part of the movement towards achieving full disability rights in Australia.

Barbara Collier

BARBARA COLLIER

Barbara Collier is Executive Director of Augmentative Communication Community Partnerships Canada, a federal, non-profit organization that conducts projects to promote social awareness, communication accessibility, enhanced quality of life and community participation for people with complex communication needs. Barbara is a Speech Language Pathologist and has worked as a project manager, researcher, resource developer, educator and clinician. She has managed projects relating to abuse prevention and safety as well as communication access to justice and community services. She has published in peer-reviewed journals and has developed a number of instructional books and DVDs for consumers.

Keynote Session Title:

Creating Accessible Community Services for People who use Augmentative Communication

Synopsis:

Human rights legislation protects the rights of all people with disabilities to full and equal access to goods, services and opportunities in their communities. Accessibility is much more than getting into a building or using a washroom. It includes being able to effectively, authentically and meaningfully communicate with the people providing the goods and services. Using the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities as the backdrop for policial change and opportunity, we will explore communication accessibility from the perspective of current barriers and proposed accommodations for people who have communication disabilities.

DARRYL SELLWOOD

Darryl Sellwood is Director of the Australian Communication Exchange, a not-for-profit business offering communication services and products to deaf, communication impaired, hearing impaired and hearing people. Darryl's Honours research at University of South Australia is in the field of telecommunications access for people with complex communication needs. As an AAC user, he understands many of the challenges people with CCN face in accessing telecommunications and as a computer science graduate with experience in the telecommunications field, he has a broad perspective on both user and technical issues. An incisive and provocative thinker and an engaging speaker, Darryl presented at ISAAC 2010 in Barcelona.

Keynote Session Title:

Take this: It's more than participation, it's enabling satisfying lives

Synopsis:

Within the disability field we have come a long way since Ed Roberts, the father of the disability movement, and his gang crawled up the steps to the Capitol Building and the San Francisco 25 day sit-in. Within a shorter time in the AAC field we have seen the introduction of text printing communicators, symbol based systems, speech generating devices and dynamic displays. Now features once only a dream, such as eye gaze technology, are becoming common in AAC devices. Parking the bus under the gumtree, Darryl will ponder some more wild places that we can head for. He will encourage us to gain an understanding of our history so we are equipped to take our message to the streets. Scattered through his presentation he will share some of his own personal stories of being an AAC user, as well as some of the insights he has discovered as a researcher, one of which is that AAC is not just enabling people to participate in their communities, it's enabling people to have satisfying lives.

 Venue: Adelaide Convention Centre – Meeting Room 11
 Cost: $48.00 per ticket

Come along and enjoy a delicious cooked breakfast while joining this discussion sparked in 2010 by the AGOSCI listserv, "How do we convince others to make a little extra effort to support the use of AAC?"

Panel speakers will give a brief overview of ideas that will arm participants with strategies to encourage communication partners to get on board and support the use and development of AAC strategies. A question and discussion period will follow the presentations.

This panel discussion is specifically aimed at people hoping to influence communication partners or groups of individuals at a grass roots level although strategies may be generalised to those interested in creating culture and policy change within organisations.
