

INCREASING PEER INTERACTIONS THROUGH SIGING

Author

McQueen, Andrea

Short Abstract

This paper describes the provision of signing instruction to one verbal woman with an intellectual disability in order to increase social communication opportunities with her deaf-blind friend, who relies on signing as her primary means of communication. This had unanticipated benefits for both women and the service they attend.