

“I’VE GOT SOMETHING TO SAY”: DEVELOPING AN EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION SYSTEM FOR AN AUDITORY SCANNER

Author

Claire Della Torre

Short Abstract

Case study of a teenager with cerebral palsy and cortical visual impairment and the journey to develop an effective communication system for him, including a PODD communication book using auditory partner-assisted scanning. Positive outcomes resulting from collaboration between communication partners will be highlighted, along with successes, challenges and future directions.