Short Abstract

The PRC Application and Support Software has the potential to be of great benefit to clinicians, teachers and family members and assistants who support individuals who use Liberator Products. Whilst the programming and customization of the device are well used, full potential of this programme is seldom realized. This presentation will highlight those lesser know features which will make learning the linguistic and operational functions of the device an easier task. It will also demonstrate how to create therapy materials to support the learner in the classroom.
