Invitation

It is with great pleasure that I invite you to participate in our flagship event for 2010 - 'Australia's Energy – Next Generation'. The efficient conversion, distribution and use of energy in Australia is a cornerstone of our economy. However, like most advanced economies, Australia needs to greatly reduce its emissions from energy conversion and use. This challenge will stimulate a major restructure in the way we produce electricity, and use other forms of energy. But our challenge is not only in the technology and engineering that provide these solutions, but also to our 'next generation' of energy professionals. The conference organisers are to be commended for providing a focus on the incoming energy professions – Young Energy Professionals (YEPs). It is this group of energy engineers, economists, lawyers and other professionals that will set the scene for our energy future. In the absence of a clear national energy policy this is a challenging task. The AIE is very pleased to host this event and to provide a forum for our current and incoming energy professionals to meet this challenge head on.

Tony Vassallo
AIE National President

Hosted by The Australian Institute of Energy

The Australian Institute of Energy (AIE) provides balanced information and a forum for discussion of the energy issues facing Australia, whether technical, economic, social or environmental. It covers a wide variety of energy interests for the members and is not a lobby group for any particular industry, company or energy view point. The AIE promotes understanding and awareness of energy issues and the development of responsible energy policies in Australia. ## AIE National Conference—A Rare Opportunity!

Australia's Energy - Next Generation is a much needed Conference that focuses on traditional and future energy sources. The speakers will challenge you on emerging technologies, carbon reduction, consumer demand, transport and alternative fuels plus nuclear for Australia.

It is a Conference that will:

- identify how Australia is placed in the world and regional competitive energy spectrum, and
- address the required leadership and challenges for Australia to develop a secure and sustainable energy future.

Unique to this Conference is the Young Energy Professionals perspective on Australia's future energy needs, directions and leadership.

The AIE has carefully developed a robust Conference program incorporating a combination of high profile international and national experts plus energy professionals—all well qualified to address Australia's future energy strategies.

Australia's Energy - Next Generation is a Conference for all leaders and professionals in the energy and associated sectors, who value the opinions and strategies offered by national and international energy experts and who seek a more secure and sustainable energy future for their industry and for Australia.

Host City—Adelaide

Adelaide is a compact city of approximately 1.2 million people, situated between the beautiful Adelaide Hills and the long white beaches of the Gulf of St Vincent. Settled in 1836, Adelaide retains much of the charm and tranquillity of the past while offering all the vigour, multicultural diversity and conveniences of a modern city. Adelaide is known for its biennial Arts Festival, its many churches and graceful stone buildings and its location within an hour's drive of some of Australia's most famous and beautiful wine producing regions. This conference provides the opportunity to undertake pre- or post-conference activities and tours to visit South Australian attractions such as the Barossa Valley, Kangaroo Island and the beautiful Flinders Ranges, as well as other sights closer to the city.
