	International Students Special Interest Group (ISSIG) was established in June 2010 to provide a platform for career staff at Universities to share ideas, information, resources and collaboration opportunities with colleagues sharing similar interests/challenges in servicing international students. The concurrent sessions offers networking, discussion, and resource sharing opportunities to current, new and non members.  Facilitator: Serene Lil-Stephens, Macquarie for International Students	The Postgraduate Career Advisors Network (PCAN) is comprised of practitioners who work with, or are interested in, the career development of postgraduate students. The primary focus of the group is on postgraduate research students, however, coursework Masters are also considered. PCAN has an email discussion list and holds a mid-year forum on postgraduate career development issues each year.  Facilitator: Shari Walsh, QUT	The Work Integrated Learning special interest group is being established as a platform for career staff working closely with teaching staff, or within teaching programs, in the delivery of career development learning initiatives particularly in placement/practicum/ work experience/work integrated learning programs. The key aim is to develop an ongoing Community of Practice and Forum for the sharing & developing of effective collaborations, new initiatives, alternate practice, experiences etc with Colleagues working in similar fields.  Facilitator: Verity Kingsmill, Flinders University	Working with employers, professional associations and industry groups is an essential part of Careers Services work. This session is designed to identify the issues involved in planning and implementing fairs, visits and events involving employers and how we can learn from one another. We are seeking to determine whether there is an interest in developing a network of staff involved in these activities, to identify the issues facing us in our work and to determine how we can ensure relevant professional development for ourselves.  Facilitator: Julia Stott & Kathryn Anderson, Flinders University	Career Development Learning Network is being established to leverage the outcomes of the NAGCAS ALTC project which examined how CDL can add value to the university experience. This session will be the next step in establishing an engaging and active community of practice which seeks to develop tools and practices which can be embedded in curricular and co-curricular contexts. We will explore concepts around NAGCAS practitioners becoming facilitators within their own settings, to maximise the reach of CDL practice more broadly.  Facilitator: Martin Smith, University of Wollongong & Sally Brooks, RMIT	The Art of Flow (Workshop) Dr Adam Fraser
